the intermediate department of the school a wonderful treat of "Uncle Remus" stories.

We were so glad to hear our pastor's voice again as he stood before us on last Sunday morning and opened the Sunday school exercises.
He is rapidly gaining his strength and we hope soon to have him fill all his appointments again.

Dr Amos Estes suffered an attack

There was an all day service at Crooked Run last Sunday. Rev. Mr.
Yarborough preached two splendid sermons. In the morning from the text, "Shall Ye Rob God?" In the afternoon from Amos 8-12, "For behold I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of the hearing of the word of God." Both of these were full of simple truth and sincerity and went home to all of our hearts. We never hear Mr. Yarborough without going home with a cleaner purpose than before.

Mr. Eber Mason spent several days in our midst last week.

Mr. Joe Clark left this week for Old Soldiers' home.

ding anniversary with a delightful ten couples and marked with cunning Hallowe'en score cards. The highest score was made by W. H.

Ruff, the consolation falling to Miss Marguerite Ruff. A salad course was served, the plates prettily garnished, each bearing a Hallowe'en favor.

Miss Bessie Thomas spent the Columbia on Sunday night.

Mrs. J. D. Fulp, of Abbeville, vis-

THE SOUTH SHOULD TAKE STEPS TO RAISE HOGS.

Many now realize the error made the last year or so of selling off too many of our brood sows and gilts. The movement of feeder hogs to the corn belt and other feeding sections has been considerable the past couple of years and in every car load that moved out of the South practically there were numbers of gilts and young sows that should have been kept on the farm and bred.
Had this been done we would now have more pigs through which we could market our splendid corn crop, receiving much better value for our feed than we can hope to sell it for in the markets.

Everywhere there is a demand for good pigs, weighing from 60 to 100 pounds for feeding and the farmers the South are going to lose many a dollar on their crop of corn, peanuts, velvet beans and soy beans, because there are not pigs enough in the South to consume this feed.

Another erroneous idea held by some is that we should raise pigs in the South and sell to the corn belt to be finished. For the same reasons that we can produce pigs more cheaply than the corn belt farmer, we can finish them more cheaply, provided of course we grow the feeds.
Many experiments made at southern experiment stations prove absolutely that if abundant feeds, such as soy beans and peanuts are grown, we can produce a minimum of corn and with the increase of our corn production year by year there is no question but that the time is rapidly approaching when we will have a surplus of corn over the needs for bread and feed for our work stock and that a system of hog raising and finishing will be necessary if we are to realize a profit upon our surplus corn. The South has for so many years been furnishing the raw material, it is high time that we were laying plans to take advantage of our natural conditions favorable and as we increase our production of feed, likewise we should increase our live stock production, offering on the market the finished product in the form of meat, butter, and poultry products. Every likely gift should be saved and bred and farmers who have none should plan to buy. Definite steps for a permanent pasture should be taken and feed crops should be produced, such as peanuts, soy beans and cow peas, upon which the hogs may be grazed and these feeds supplemented with corn. If we are to have hogs enough to enable us to utilize our increased feeds, we must plan now for spring litters.

A brood sow on every farm and more where the farmer can possibly care for them should be the slogan.
The marketing of hogs can be successfully worked out through cooperation among farmers and is being in many sections of the South where hogs are rapidly getting to be one of the principal cash crops.

THE WORTH OF YOUR OLD CAR

What would it be worth if it looked like a new one? A coat of paint may be the only necessary thing to raise the value of your car many times the cost of the job.

A new coat of paint is the greatest preventative of depreciation known today—especially is this true of automobiles. Keep the value of your car up where it properly belongs by protecting the exposed surfaces. Money invested in painting and trimming is well invested.

There isn't a more modern or complete automobile paint and trim shop in the South than we maintain right here in Columbia. Some day while in Columbia take a look into our plant—then you will know why a Gibbes job is the standard in South Carolina.
